AN ALL ROUND FAILURE.

News received yesterday from Honolulu shows that the provisional government is sufficiently able to take care of itself as against the supporters of the ex-queen, who therefore has no hope of restoration unless by the aid of the United States. The statement by Mr. Willis is a very significant one in so far as it goes to settle a question of veracity between Commissioner Blount on one side and ex-Minister Stevens, Minister Thurston and special emissaries of the new government on the other. Blount's report was considered by Mr. Cleveland as infallible and on it he based the policy which has involved the United States in the affair. Yet Minister Willis says that he found a condition of affairs in Honolulu to which his instructions were not applicable.

Why were the instructions not made applicable? Mr. Blount had just returned from the islands and was supposed to be quite familiar with the conditions; his report was supposed to embody a statement of facts and nothing else. Yet it now appears that he brought away with him an incorrect impression of the feeling of the Hawaiian people, of their attitude to the prevailing government. If the special commissioner failed in this one essential feature of his mission, is not his failure presumptive evidence that he failed in all? Does it not prove what has been asserted that his investigation was conducted wholly amid royalist environments, practically shut out from communication with the other side? By the same processes which gave the special commissioner a false idea of the situation at Honolulu while he was there, and at the time of his departure, it must appear evident he believed an erroneous account of the dethronement of the queen.

We have not yet been informed of the character of Minister Willis' instructions, though it is evident that his mission was primarily to restore the queen, not by force but by an avowal of sympathy and a withdrawal of the presence of the marines. It was evidently believed that when the provisional government learned that it must cope single handed with the queen's forces that a quiet surrender of authority would take place under a guarantee from Minister Willis that the lives and property of the rebels should be respected. This conclusion with regard to his instructions is arrived at by the circumstance that if he were authorized to employ force in the accomplishment of his mission he could have successfully restored the queen, and his instructions would have been applicable to any possible condition of affairs that might have existed on the islands.

The El Paso (Tex.) newspapers have found one source of business cut off, having been met by an effective boycott on the thither side of the Rio Grande. The Times was prohibited last Saturday from circulating in Mexico and persons doing business in Mexico were forbidden to patronize the advertising columns of the paper. Yesterday the same prohibition was applied to the Tribune and Herald. These journals have been handling the Mexican revolution in a free and easy way foreign to Mexican journalistic methods and President Diaz has consistently concluded that an objectionable newspaper, over which he cannot establish a censorship, can at least be kept out of his domains.

HEREAFTER let no skeptic deny the existence of latter day miracles. The Phoenix Herald has indulged in the expression of an opinion. It wasn't much of an opinion, it's true, and it wasn't very well expressed. The opinion was rudimentary, but susceptible of development, but so was the world once without form and void. Now see what she is.

THE COURSE of the city council in dealing with the East End Electric Light company is commendable as it will have a tendency to inspire corporations holding city franchise with an idea of their value. This company desperately opposed the terms under which the franchise was granted, furnishing the city building with a few incandescent lamps. It consented to do so only when it found that the concession could be obtained in no other way. The delay in conforming to the conditions leads to the suspicion that the company means if possible to disregard the conditions entirely.

A PREACHER at Nogales is entertaining his congregation with a discussion of the question, "Is life worth living?" That depends. If he is south of the international line, we should say not; if north, there are mitigating circumstances in favor of living.

DENTISTRY IN PARIS.

Tooth Carpententering There Is a Great Refuge for Quacks and Impositors.

It is within living memory, says the New York Evening Post, that the dentists best known to Parisians were what was called "arracheurs de dents," or tooth drawers, who had chairs on the Champs Elysees, in which they extracted teeth in the presence of large crowds. It was the popular belief that, in order to support their proclamation that the operation was painless, as soon as the dentist got his pincers firmly fixed on the tooth, he whispered in the patient's ear: "Canaille. If you make the faintest squeak, I'll break your jaw." The arrival of the American dentists, forty years ago, gradually banished these worthies from the public view, and gave dentistry the rank of a profession, and made its processes more humane and scientific. But dentistry is still in France a great refuge for quacks and impostors, as there is no proper legal control of the art and no diploma required for the practice of it. A writer in the Temps, speaking of this, says that he went recently to a dentist in a small town to get relief from a toothache. The operator had been highly recommended to him as very skillful. When he saw him, however, he recognized him as a retired gendarme whom he had long known. "Where did you learn dentistry?" he inquired. Seizing his pincers, the ex-gendarme replied: "With this, monsieur, there is no need of study. It is a beautiful instrument. When it once takes hold the tooth has to come or the jaw gives away. Sit down and I'll show you." The sufferer promptly fled.

Queen Victoria's Marriage Proverb.
Victoria, like her grandson William, is certainly one of the great match-makers of the day. Empress Eugenie used to say she was "une grande marieuse," and the title was a just one. Not long ago she wished to make up a marriage between a lady and gentleman of her court. The former did not seem to see it and proved rebel to the royal advice, quoting St. Paul's famous words: "He who marries doeth well; but he who does not marry doeth still better." "My child," said the queen, "be content in doing well; let those who can do better."

TOBACCO HABIT EASILY CURED.

A FEW Testimonials from persons who have been cured by the use of Hill's Tablets.

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—I have been using your cure for tobacco habit, and found it would do what you claim for it. I used ten cents worth of the strongest chewing tobacco a day, and from one to five cigars; or I would smoke from ten to forty pipes of tobacco. Have chewed and smoked for twenty-five years, and two packages of your Tablets cured me so I have no desire for it.
B. M. JAYLORD, Leslie, Mich.

DOBBIE FREY, N. Y.
THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—Some time ago I sent for $1.00 worth of your Tablets for Tobacco Habit. I received them all right, and although I was both a heavy smoker and chewer, they did the work in less than three days. I am cured.
Truly yours, MATHEW JOHNSON, P. O. Box 45, PITTSBURGH, PA.

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—It gives me pleasure to speak a word of praise for your Tablets. My son was strongly addicted to the use of liquor, and through a friend, I was led to try your Tablets. He was a heavy and constant drinker, but after using your Tablets but three days he quit drinking, and will not touch liquor of any kind. I have waited four months before writing you, in order to know the cure was permanent.
MRS. HELEN MORRISON, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—Your Tablets have performed a miracle in my case. I have used morphine, hypodermically, for seven years, and have been cured by the use of two packages of your Tablets, and without any effort on my part.
W. L. LUTGAY.
